The aircraft noise contours on this map depict a concept of aircraft movements only. The contours are a concept of aircraft movements and aircraft types based on hypothetical conditions for the year 2025. The model applies weightings to forecast aircraft movements for different times of the day. The concept/forecast has been prepared to be considered with AS 2021-2000 in accordance with accepted industry practice, actual noise levels can vary according to actual aircraft movements and environmental conditions.
